Trip Lightly.

Trip lightly over trouble,
Trip lightly over wrong,
We only make grief double
fly dwelling on it long.
Why clisp wee's hand so tightly?
Why sigh o'er hiossoms dead?
Why cling to forms unsightly?
Why not seek joy instead?

Trip lightly over sorrow,
Though all the days be dark,
The sun may shine to-morrow
And gayly sing the lark,
Fair hope has not departed,
Though roses may have fied;
Then never be down-hearted

But look for joy instead.

Trip lightly over sadness,
Stand not to rail at doom;
We've no pearl to string gladness
On this side of the tomb.
Whilst stars are nightly shining,
And heaven is overhead, Encourage not repining. But look for joy instead.

Harper for October Contents: THE October number of DEMOREST'S MONTH LY MAPAZINE combines most agreeable the useful and the entertaining, and contains a vast amount of information on a variety of subjects. "The Plantin Museum at Antwerp," "A Trip to the West," "Woman's Work and Wages," and "Talks With Women," by Jennic June, are all capital articles. The Household Department is well filled, the articles on "Home Art and Horse Comfort," and "How to Treat our Doors," being especially good, "The Admiral's Ward," is continued, "Current Topics," "The Fushlors," poems, and miscellaneous articles, complete this interesting number The oil picture, "A Trial of Patience," is quite

How a Mosquito Bites.

From the Batavia Spirit, The bill of a mosquito is a complex fulstitution, and is admirably calculated to torment. The bill has a flat fork at the head, and is apparently grooved Working through the groove, and pro-jecting from the entre of the angle of the fork, is a lance of perfect form, sharpen-ed to a fine bevel, beside which the most perfect lance made by human hands ooks like a band-saw. On the other side of this lance two saws are arranged with the points sharp and the teeth well defined and keen. The backs of these saws play against the lance. When the mosquite alights with its peculiar hum, it thrusts with its keen lance and then enlarges the aperture with the two saws. which play beside the lance until the forked bill, with capillary arrangements for pumping the blood, can be inserted. The sawing process is what grates upon the nerves of the victim and causes him to strike wildly at the sawyer, and the teritation of the mosquito bite is owing to the action of the saws.

Young and middle-aged men suffering from nervous debility, premature old age, loss of memory, and kindred symptoms, should send three samps, for Part VII of pamphilots issued by World's Dispensary Medical Association, N.

Blasting Coal With Compressed Lime.

(From the London Times.)

Yesterday, August 20th, a series of interesting experiments took place in the workings of the Wharn-cliffe Silkstone Collieries, near Sheffield, the object being to test the new method of whinning coal by the use of compressed lime in stead of blasting powder. The experiments, which were witnessed by the officials of this and other collieries, took place in the Parkgate Seam. A hole about three inches in diameter and three feet deep was drilled through the solid goal and cleaned out, a perforated fron tube was then inserted, and the lime cartridge three inches long put. in. When hole made up, a force pump was used to inject water into the bottom of the Simultaneously with injection of the of the water the rending process began, and in thirty minutes about ten tons of coal game down in an almost unbroken mess Of the whole of the fall, not more than 6 per cent, of the coal was small, a much smaller per centage than under the old system. It is anticipated that compressed line will eventually supersede the use of blasting powder, and thus re-volutionize the system of whinning coal.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

The committee appointed to draft suitable resolutions in regard to the memory of our deceased brother, Jas. R. Hill, beg leave to submit the following report:

WHEMFAS, it has pleased Him who ruleth all things at his own will and pleasare, and whose ways are past finding out, to remove from our midst our beloved brother, Jas. R. Hill, in the prime of his manhood, and in the midst of his usefulness to the church, to the community, to this Council of United Pricards of Temperance, and to his young and interesting family.

And, whereas it does not become us to question the goodness of God in this dispensation of his providence, or to doubt his levet to those whom he has chosen to be heirs of salvation, but to submit unmurmoringly to all the righteous dispensations of his providence. Therefore, be it

[Special to the Whig.]

STAUNTON, VA., Sept. 18. Two little deaf mute brothers named Akers, new pupils, from Franklin county, ran away this morning and were struck by a train east of Fisherville, one being killed and the other burt, about 5:30 o'clock A. M. The boys retired to the closet-a privilege always allowed the males in the past history of the institation-when compelled to leave the dormitories between retiring and rising hours. There was no reason for appre hending their purpose to escape, as they seemed, since the departure of their fath er, to have become attached to their new After discovering that they could not be found on the institution premises, and after the lapse of about two hours, during which diligent search was made, we received information that they were seen about one-half mile east of Staunton. "Chatty Brooks," in Arthur's Home Magazine, gives her method of preserving grapes. She says: The way we preserve grapes is to put into a clean, new crock or jar a layer of grapes an a layer of sugar, until within an inch of the top, placing sugar enough over each layer of grapes to cover them well; when filled stand in an oven which is not hot enough to bake bread. Let them remain in there until they are cool. Do this for three days, letting them heat enough to barely simmer. This is the best and most satisfactory way we know of; it saves fahor and is easily done. The last time they are heated, take a spoon and sar gently from the outside into the center. When cold sprinkle over with sugar, and tie strong papers over with sugar, and tie strong papers over the jars.
